Note: Incoming students to the Undergraduate Training Course for School Nurses are not eligible for this system.

The National financial support system is a government financial support system that provides waivers in admission and tuition fees and grant-type scholarships through the Japan Student Services Organization. In this system, applicants apply for grant-type scholarships of the Japan Student Services Organization (hereinafter, "JASSO"), and selected applicants will receive waivers in their university admission and tuition fees.

This system is primarily for students with Japanese nationality.

Applicants selected for support under the System will receive admission and tuition fee waivers, along with grant-type scholarships, according to their support category. Applicants from Households with Multiple Children will receive a full exemption of admission and tuition fees regardless of their support category.

Applicants who fall under any of the below categories from 1) through 5) are eligible to receive a reduction or exemption of admission and tuition fees under the New System. Eligible applicants (including those from Households with Multiple Children seeking full tuition fee exemption) must also apply to JASSO after admission to Kanazawa University. For more information on the systems and related procedures, please see the Kanazawa University website page below (the procedures are scheduled to be announced in late March 2026).

Tuition fees will not be debited from your bank account during this deferral period.
- 2 Applicants will have their admission cancelled and they will be expelled if they are not granted a full exemption as a result of their application for waiver of the admission fee under the National financial support system or the Kanazawa University system and fail to pay the admission fee within 14 days of being notified of the result. Also, if applicants are granted a deferral but fail to pay the admission fee by Wednesday, September 30, 2026, they will have their admission cancelled and be expelled.

The results of health checkups—including medical interviews, health certificates, and health questionnaires—not only help us understand individual health conditions and provide necessary support, but are also essential for assessing the overall health and lifestyle of students in order to implement appropriate measures.

Furthermore, it is assumed that individuals who have undergone health checkups agree to the use of their health checkup data as fundamental material for promoting student health. This may include statistical analysis in a manner that does not identify individuals, as well as the presentation of results at academic conferences and similar occasions. If anything is unclear, please contact the Health Service Center.

12 Student Comprehensive Mutual Aid and Other Recommended Optional Insurance

Student Comprehensive Mutual Aid is an indemnity program in which Kanazawa University Co-op serves as the contact office, and the Japan CO-OP Insurance Consumers' Co-operative Federation is the underwriting organization. This "mutual aid system among students" covers approximately 818,000 students nationwide. The Student Comprehensive Mutual Aid provides coverage for hospitalization and surgery due to illness or injury, as well as outpatient treatment for injuries. This insurance system is designed to accommodate the wide range of activities undertaken by university students, offering protection not only on campus but also during part-time work and travel, both in Japan and overseas. Also, as an additional recommended insurance, there is Personal Liability Insurance for Students which covers damages in everyday life, such as when riding a bicycle, and there is also Personal Liability Insurance for Students (with a special clause for students living alone) which covers damages to household goods caused by fire, water leakage, etc. as well as tenant liability to the landlord. 13 Institute of Liberal Arts and Science Website (excluding Transfer Admission applicants, and Undergraduate Training Course for School Nurses applicants)

The first courses you need to register for after admission are the Studies in Liberal Arts and Science. However, as students are required to conduct various procedures in a short time, they often make mistakes when registering for courses. This sometimes affects students' graduation and registration for specialized courses.

Therefore, we will post necessary information for incoming students on the New and Current Students Page on the Institute of Liberal Arts and Science website from mid-March. Here, we will post various materials, including the Studies in Liberal Arts and Science Guide Book, so please make sure to check regularly.

14 English Language Courses (excluding Transfer Admission applicants, and Undergraduate Training Course for School Nurses applicants)

(1) Placement for English Classes

One of the English classes you will take during your first year is Practical English. Here, students will be placed into three groups according to their English proficiency. Classes will then be formed within these groups. (There is no difference in the learning objectives between the groups.)

For successful applicants admitted through entrance examinations that require the Common Test for University Admissions, those who have taken English in the Common Test for University Admissions will have their test results used as a reference for determining English proficiency. Students other than the above are required to submit a score to the Kanazawa University Website from an external English examination in mid-March to assess their English proficiency. The submitted score will be used for class placement (applicable students who did not submit a score will be placed in the intermediate class).

Details will be published on the Kanazawa University website in mid-March. Check the latest information, and follow any instructions.

(2) Grade Evaluation for English Courses Based on External Examination Results

For Practical English and EAP, which are taken in the first year, we have implemented a system where students can receive the highest grade of "S" based on scores of external English examinations, without having to take the courses. The eligible external examinations are the TOEIC L&R (Public Test) for Practical English, and the TOEFL iBT and IELTS (Academic) for EAP. Details regarding the standards and requirements can be found in the Studies in Liberal Arts and Science Guide Book 2026, which will be distributed after admission. The deadline to use this system for courses held in the first and second quarters (Practical English I, Practical English II, EAP I, EAP II) is scheduled for early April.

For inquiries, please contact the General Education Academic Affairs Section of the General Education Support Division. Contact information can be found on 3. Inquiries on pages I-10 to 13.

2 Refraining from Commuting by Car or Motorcycle

Recently, there has been a significant increase in the number of students commuting by car or motorcycle, and we are concerned about the rising number of traffic accidents involving students. If a student causes an accident, it not only seriously disrupts their studies but also imposes a significant and long-term social and economic burden on both the student and their family, potentially affecting their future prospects.

Kanazawa University is easily accessible using public transport. In light of these circumstances, we strongly urge students to refrain from commuting to campus by car or motorcycle, and we are taking steps to ensure thorough compliance with this policy. We strongly request that all incoming students and their parents fully understand the intent of this policy and refrain from commuting to campus by car or motorcycle, in order to prevent traffic accidents and maintain a safe and conducive environment for education and research on campus.

Please note that incoming students will not be permitted to commute to school by car unless they have special circumstances. In the case of special circumstances, such as a physical disability or living in an area where it is very difficult to commute by bus, please contact the relevant desk of your respective school during the designated application period, which will be announced via notices after admission.

Note 1: Under the Road Traffic Act, it is mandatory for bicycle riders to wear helmets. When riding a bicycle, we strongly recommend that you wear a helmet.

Note 2: Under the Ishikawa Prefecture Bicycle Ordinance, it is mandatory for all bicycle users to have insurance. Please make sure to obtain the required coverage.
